Tour of BARENBRUG Holland research station Wolfheze, NL

In the Netherlands, we as Barenbrug Research work from our office in Wolfheze at several test field locations. Our main task is to create new varieties of different types of grass. These varieties must of course always be better than the existing varieties and we mainly try to make varieties that better meet the wishes of the user. The desired properties and applications are very different; think, for example, of grasses that yield a lot of and especially nutritious grass for highly productive dairy cows.
